INTERACTIVE CIVIC EXHIBITION EXPERIENCE

CTRL + START

You're a citizen. Now what?

A five-question experience that finds the civic instinct you reach for first, opens a room built around it, and points you to real organisations you can join in Ghana and West Africa.

WHY IT MATTERS

MAKING CIVIC LIFE PERSONAL

Governance documents are written for institutions. This starts with the visitor.

Visitors meet the ideas of the African Charter on Democracy, Elections and Governance through situations they already know, and through music, art and people they may already admire.

- Everyday situations: an unlit entrance, a rumour on WhatsApp, a policy that hits night-shift workers
- Rooted in Ghana and West Africa: 14 people from 9 African countries, and 28 local organisations

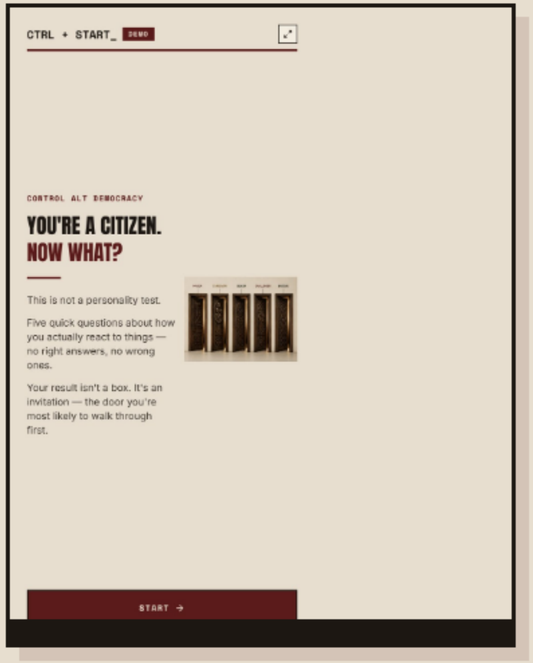

WHAT MAKES IT DIFFERENT

FOUR THINGS YOU WON'T FIND IN A STANDARD QUIZ

It is not a personality test. It is an invitation to start somewhere.

Starts with you

No lecture, no jargon. The first screen asks what you'd do.

No right answers

Every option is a valid civic instinct, so nobody is marked wrong.

Culture is the doorway

Music, film, books, poetry and art from across Africa lead into the ideas.

Ends in real action

Each room closes with local organisations a visitor can contact or join.

WHO IT'S FOR

BUILT FOR PEOPLE WHO ARE CURIOUS, NOT EXPERTS

Exhibition visitors

Anyone walking through a civic or cultural exhibition. No prior knowledge needed.

People in Ghana and West Africa

The people, examples and organisations are local and regional.

Hosts and partners

Museums, cultural centres, civic groups and funders who want visitors to leave with a next step.

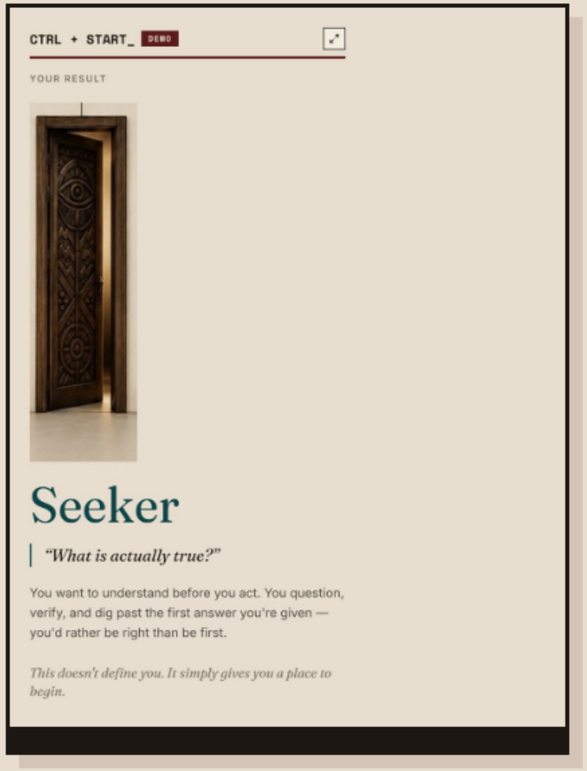

WHAT IT AIMS TO ACHIEVE

FROM "THAT'S ME" TO "I CAN DO SOMETHING"

Three steps that take a visitor from self-recognition to a real organisation near them.

STEP 1

Recognise your instinct

A result that describes how you naturally react, not a label.

STEP 2

Discover what shaped it

People, music, films and art that show that instinct at work.

STEP 3

Take part

Organisations already doing this work in Ghana and West Africa.

THE VISITOR JOURNEY

FIVE SCENARIOS. ONE DOOR.

Everyday situations, not a test.

Each scenario asks what you would do or want to understand first. Every answer points to one of five civic instincts.

THE SYSTEM

FIVE INSTINCTS, FIVE DOORS

Each room has its own guiding question, colour and door. Everyone carries all five instincts; the experience shows which one comes first.

Maker

“What can we do?”

Turns ideas into action. Starts moving before everyone has finished talking.

Caregiver

“Who is being affected?”

Notices who is included, who is left out, who carries the weight.

Seeker

“What is actually true?”

Wants to understand before acting. Questions and verifies.

Challenger

“Why is this allowed?”

Pushes on what does not hold up. Asks who benefits.

Bridger

“How do we move forward together?”

Connects people who do not naturally talk to each other.

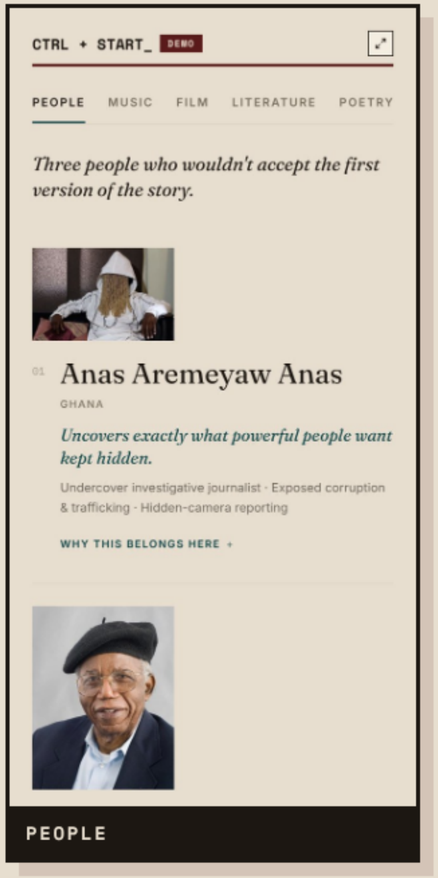

INSIDE A ROOM

A GUIDE, NOT A SCORE

Seven sections per room, each linked back to the charter.

Each room is a curated guide: people, music, film, literature, poetry, art and organisations.

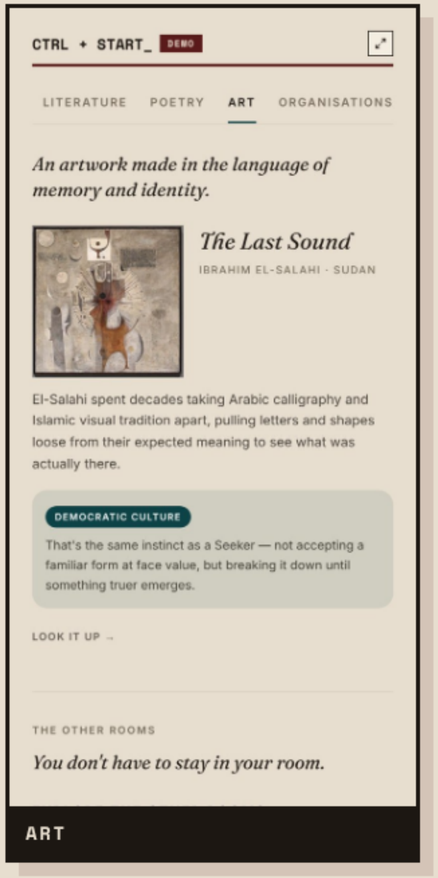

- 14 people from 9 African countries · 28 local organisations, each with a source
